St. Louis Housing Authority selects ND Consulting Group to conduct a real estate feasibility study at the Clinton-Peabody

St. Louis Housing Authority, ND Consulting Group and Capital Consultants to begin property assessment and resident engagement work this month at the Clinton-Peabody public housing development.

St. Louis, MO (March 16, 2018) – The St. Louis Housing Authority (SLHA) selects ND Consulting Group, which includes Tim Person and Associates, Grice Group Architects and Capital Consultants to conduct a feasibility study of the 358 unit, Clinton-Peabody, multi-family apartment complex, located at 1401 LaSalle Lane, St. Louis, MO 63104.

Through a Request for Proposals (RFP) competitive solicitation issued November 27, 2017, the SLHA selected the ND Consulting Group team. The team will conduct a physical needs assessment of the current housing, a market assessment of the development and surrounding neighborhoods and provide capital expenditure planning, construction cost estimates and project capital funds for the proposed redevelopment strategies.

As part of the analysis, data will be gathered from residents, the community and external stakeholders in an effort to obtain feedback and to develop the proposed strategies. Existing housing availability in the St. Louis area and adjacent to the housing development will be evaluated. Once complete, data from the market analysis will provide information to assist in forming the team's recommendations. The team will then present their recommendations to the St. Louis Housing Authority for review. After review of the recommendations, an update will be shared with Clinton-Peabody residents and all stakeholders. "It is our goal to provide the most viable approach for redevelopment whether it be through rehabilitation or redevelopment," said SLHA Executive Director Cheryl Lovell.

Clinton-Peabody, built in 1942, is the only remaining large conventional public housing development in the SLHA portfolio. The development has issues of size, density, design and functional obsolescence. Significant cuts in federal funding for capital improvements over the last decade have left unmet capital needs. ND Consulting Group expressed that it is "eager to support SLHA and the residents and neighbors of Clinton-Peabody to determine how best to reposition this long-standing community asset."
